At this school, revealed in Book 3 of the Ringing Cedars Series, the children have designed, built, and decorated their own campus. They cover the entire high-school curriculum in one year and get official Master's degrees by the time they are seventeen. They cook their meals, do administrative work, and write their own textbooks. They contemplate the meaning of the Universe and swim in mountain streams. They dance, draw, sing, and pick strawberries in the surrounding fields. They have no interest in the TV or video games. They do not prepare themselves for 'life' — they live every moment they breathe. In this inspiring video these children will move you to tears and their words will touch the very core of your being.
